Mr. John McKinney and family were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Ackerman last Sunday.

The night watchman at the Zeig foundry seems to have had his share of trouble the past week or so. The work of a watchman is rather lonely some job and this man wanting something alive around, has been keeping a couple of dogs which most of the time he has kept locked up. But occasionally they get loose and the neighbors' chickens come up missing and children become frightened and the life of the watchman made miserable by complaints of citizens of that part of town. So he has finally promised that hereafter he will dispense with their company.

Some of the citizens of this place are excited over the fact that some forty quarts of nitro-glycerine was stored in a local barn here Monday night. There was enough of the stuff to completely demolish the entire town if an accident had happened to set it off. Most towns require drivers of wagons carrying the explosive to keep out of the corporate limits and Fredericktown passed an ordinance in 1896 attaching a fine of one thousand dollars to any one found guilty of bringing nitro-glycerine into the town. For some reason or other of late this law has not been enforced and wagon loads of the stuff are hauled through our business streets and stored in barns over night. Few people realize what great danger there is in handling the stuff and the drivers of the wagons become careless and over confident, so that eventually they wind up with a blow up and no funeral services needed. We are informed that this wagon load came through from Marietta where the factory is located and was intended for shooting oil wells north of town. That it got out of town safely this time is no guarantee that it will always do so and the officials should see that the law is enforced to its limit.

Monday evening was the time set for a meeting of the Commercial club and all other business men at the council chamber to "start the ball a-rolling" for a big time at the "Home Coming" on Labor Day. As usual the attendance was small and the initial work left to a few. Even at that the meeting was profitable to those present and is sure to bring about the results we all so much desire—that is, a Home Coming better than any former one. It was not decided at this meeting whether to accept an offer for a speech from Col. Roosevelt or to have an exhibition of the flying machines by the Wright Brothers. Either one would be a great attraction for places much larger than Fredericktown. However, it was the opinion that the business men of the place must come out and help in the work if they want a home-coming. At this meeting the particular form of entertainment to be given was not planned as that was left for future developments. The officers of the club reported that every one wants a Home Coming and that the same hearty support is promised as was given last year. There were some other matters discussed by the club members and are worthy of serious thought by the people of Fredericktown. The Opera House project was one of these. Although little has been said concerning an auditorium since the Masonic lodge decided that it could not finance such an undertaking, yet those who want to see Fredericktown hold its own in public matters, are hard at work trying to work out a solution of the problem, so that the people of Wayne and adjoining townships may have a place to meet in comfort and safety. This proposition is certainly not a dead one and the longer it is put off the greater will be the need. One of the solutions suggested was that a township house be built, made in such a manner that it will serve the double purpose of auditorium and township house. Under the new law of appraisement there will be funds available for such purposes and the payments could be so arranged that no one would have an added burden because of the improvement. Another matter fully as important was the request that the club father a petition asking the Ohio Fuel Supply Company to enlarge their gas mains to Fredericktown so as to insure a sufficient supply during the coming winter. Many of our people suffered because of a shortage last winter and if this petition be circulated at once the company will have plenty of time to lay their pipes before bad weather sets in. The club then adjourned until a further call by the president.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Cornell and daughter, Margaret, were in Columbus on Sunday.

ROCKEFELLER

May Attend Hiawatha Assembly This Year

An Invitation Is Extended To Him

And He May Be Here For A Day

The tents at Hiawatha Lake assembly are nearly all up and by Saturday evening the camp will be pretty well in shape for opening day on Monday. A few families from town will move into the camp the latter part of the week, but the rush will occur Monday, when visitors from all parts of the state will begin to pour in. More than 100 persons from Cleveland will be here, and large delegations from Zanesville, Cambridge, Marietta, Columbus and other points will be here. Mr. John D. Rockefeller's church at Cleveland will be well represented and the oil king may spend a day or two with his neighbors in camp. A special invitation has been extended to him, and he may decide to quietly slip down from Cleveland and get away from the ordinary routine of affairs for at least a day.

While the sale of tickets is encouraging, the number that was set for sale in Mt. Vernon and Knox county has not been reached, and a whole lot of hustling will have to be done yet this week. On Wednesday, in order to make things hum, tickets were placed on sale in many of the stores of the city and everybody will talk assembly from this time on. The prices, $1.50 for full season tickets and $1 for evening season tickets, will not prevail after Monday or at the gates. In most all places where assemblies are held this year season tickets cost $2, but the old prices, despite the better program, will prevail here in the advance sales.

Keep a close watch on all features of the assembly. Every number is a fine one.
